The truth is that mere duration of life is not in itself worth much have not seen any thing from our sacrifice. If we are always taking town for some time so I will write thought how this or that will bring up a few back numbers. nearer or postpone, the day of death, life becomes nothing but a ing to start Monday for Nes Perce, which would figure out more than long-drawn torture. The only right way of estimating life is not by its extent, but its value--how much has been achieved, how much to be out again. enjoyed. Any other standard is a contradiction in terms.

Life is not mere existence. It is proving activity, doing, thinking, feeling. All that gives opportunity for that, extends and increases life, though it may shorten the mere term of days. So we can hardly set our- Mrs. John Swoope. selves with any fervor to the worthy task of increasing the marriage rate by means of promising long life to the married. People with a turn for humor may regret this. There is something peculiarly delightful in the thought of a proposal in this style: "Admired Angelina, be mine, so that I can live till ninety." And Angelina would reply with tears that it was a public duty to refuse. - London Telegraph.

They were the staff officers of the Captain of her soul's salvation. Roll Call. "Two by two." Why by twos? Divine arithmetic! One and one may be more than two. Two may be more than twice one. Even in cold mathematics a single one gains power by position with another. They need each other.

Now they go-Peter, the aggressive; Andrew, the conservative-impulse For Sale .- Small Augusta coun- and caution; John, the youngest; ty home; good concrete house and James, the oldest-sunrise and sunset; Nathaniel, the scholar; Philip, the plodder-thought and action; Thomas, the doubter; Matthew, the believerskepticism and faith; Thaddeus, the apostle of faith; James, the apostle of work-Mary and Martha in the twelve; Simon, the zealous; Judas, the traitor-fidelity and infidelity. The twelve! Each the complement of his comrade. When Peter grows despendent Andrew would cheer him up. When James grows pessimistic John would glow with enthusiasm. When We have some very attractive Thomas doubted, Matthew would quote proof. When Judas was in the miff tree threatening to leave, Simon, the zealot, would bring him back. Christ takes twelve incomplete men and makes six complete ones. Man is all for quantity, God for quality.

Commission. The Shepherd saw the scattered flock, the Husbandman the harvest. Fivefold is their commission-preach the kingdom, heal the sick, cleanse the lepers, raise the dead, cast out demons. Modern disciple has no less glorious task-preaching in the pulpit, cleansing moral lepers in the slums.

Marching Orders. These raw recruits had been not to West Point, not to the theological seminary in Jerusalem, but to the school of practice under the great Teacher Himself. The substance of their preaching is, "The kingdom of heaven is at hand." John and Jesus begin their ministry with the same message. Not the kingdom of David, not a political revolution that would drive the Roman from their gates, not the tinsel, the pomp, the trappings and pageantry of royalty. That would get up a crowd at the street corner and pack the synsgogue! No, they must preach-not fight, but forgiveness; not power, but peace; not soldiers, but farmers; not battlefields, but harvest fields! Above all, repentance, for the kingdom of heaven was at hand-and that kingdom lay within them! The poor, heretical fools!

They were a flying battalion. No extra provisions for the march. Light weighted-no baggage train. Not into Samaria, nor to Damascus, nor Tyre. The issue is local just now. It isn't a social tour nor money making. Nor are they beggars. The workman is worthy of his food. If they are relected go elsewhere.

Home and foreign missions are the same. The call today is the firing line. Most of the Lord's army seem reserves! Mongolia. Ethiopia, call from afar. The heathen around the corner come to our door. How unmissionlike!
